A FINE PROGRAMME

The United church was crowded to the very doors Wednesday night when Mr. W. G. Moffatt presented the Crow's Nest Pass singers for the second year in succession to a local audience. It was an evening of music long to be remembered, with fine chorus singing, solos, etc., and the extraordinary fine performance of Frank Hoek on the violin. In spite of his intricate technical demonstrations, it remained for the Ave Maria for him to inject the soul of an artist into his music. We would easily rate him as the best amateur violinist we have ever heard, and far better than many professionals. Perhaps the most remarkable demonstration on the programme was the part singing by the boys' chorus to open the programme. The programme was well received throughout. At opening of the programme a welcome was voiced by Mrs. M. E. Jenkins on behalf of the local Chapter of the I.O.D.E., under whose auspices the programme was given. At the close, refreshments were served in Harrison hall by the I.O.D.E. for the performers. There were nearly fifty in the visiting party.—Clareholm Local Press.

A pet cocker spaniel belonging to Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Pasmore, was run over by a car and killed last week end. They have secured another from H. Upham.

C.N.P. GOLF TOURNEY OPENS HERE TOMORROW

Golfers from many points in South-eastern British Columbia and Southern Alberta will gather in Blairmore this week end for the twentieth annual tournament of the Crow's Nest Pass Golf Association, which opens tomorrow morning. They will vie with each other on the Blairmore course, a tricky and picturesque layout that will test the skill of the best to negotiate the 5,766 yards of winding and rolling ground in rare, a feat not yet accomplished. Stan Howard, of Lethbridge, posted 71 in 1937.

The course is said to be in excellent condition. Sand greens have been recently, grass on the fairways is being mowed daily and new masts have been placed on all tees. Some time during the three-day event, the annual meeting will be held, plus the banquet, when election of officers will take place. Present officers are: Harry Blake, Blairmore, president; W. H. Turner, Blairmore, secretary; and W. D. J. McBride, Kimberley, recording secretary.

The annual dance will be held in the Greenhill Grill on Saturday night.

PROVINCIAL ORGANIZER VISITS BLAIRMORE

Mrs. B. J. G. White, of Calgary, provincial organizer for the I. O. D. E., paid an official visit to Crow's Nest Chapter in Blairmore on Tuesday night, when members and their guest sat to a sumptuous banquet in the Anglican hall after the regular meeting, at which Mrs. White addressed the ladies, giving them praise and encouragement in the great work they are doing.

While in Blairmore, Mrs. White was guest of Mrs. R. W. Harold Fitch, leaving on Wednesday morning's bus for Pincher Creek, where last night she visited the Capt. McPhail Chapter, proceeding on today to Clarendon and High River.

WHAT BELGIUM PAYS

"La Libre Belgique" itemizes the sums which Germany has forced Belgium to pay for occupation, reaching a total of 15 million francs for the first year. In addition, the Nazis have requisitioned goods to the value of two billion without compensation, circulated unredeemable Reichsmarkens to the value of four billion, forced Belgian corporations to export untold quantities of manufactures and food to the Reich with almost no compensating importation. The ordinary Belgian state budget was 11 billion francs annually; as a result of occupation, it is estimated this will reach 40 billion in 1941.

Miss Rachel Smith, R.N., of Lundbreck, has accepted a position on the staff of a Cranbrook hospital.

Ratepayers of the town of Olds voted 100 per cent in favor of $4,000 being spent on sidewalks improvement. Tar sands will be used.

BLAIRMORE-FRANK UNIT 360%

Last night the Blairmore-Frank unit became the first in the province to triple its quota in the Victory Loan campaign, when announcement was made from headquarters office that $123,200 had been raised. Our quota was $41,000.

Above is pictured our flagpole almost overloaded with flag and seven pennants. To accommodate the balance of the pennants it may be necessary to set up another pole.

The Crow's Nest Pass-Pincher Creek division is also the first to double its quota in Canada, for which the divisional organizer, Mr. K. Ringland, and his efficient staffs are to be congratulated.

Pincher Creek unit doubled its quota yesterday, when $22,500 was reached. Bellevue and Coleman also went over the top when the former reached $56,300 and doubled its $23,000 quota, and the latter $55,000 with a quota of $55,000.

And we're not through yet!

MOUNTAIN MILL CHURCH THIRTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY

The thirty-ninth anniversary of Mountain Mill church was celebrated on Sunday last by a special service, at which the Pincher Creek choir, under the leadership of A. B. McMurdo, conducted the singing. Building of the church was undertaken thirty-nine years ago under the pastorate of Rev. H. R. Grant, and was cleared of debt during the first ministry of Rev. W. M. Chalmers. Ministers since that time were: Revs. Hamilton, Williams, Wilkinson, Brewer, Gray, Matthews, Miller, Scarfe, Griffith, Villet, Whitmore and Magowan. A number of letters from former ministers and students were read by Mrs. Gavin Hamilton, whose late husband was minister for eight years. The service was conducted by Rev. R. Erskine Pow. On Monday, a community church picnic was held, with a programme of sports and a sumptuous supper.

NAZI CREED

"For us only one God, Who existed from the very beginning of time and Whom we have reached again through National Socialism.

"We say: In obeying Adolf Hitler, we are obeying our Lord God. Obedience towards God means obedience to the manifestation of His orders through Adolf Hitler. The word Germany is part of our religious faith"—Part of the manifesto published in "The National Church," organ of the National Church Union of German Christians.

Harlan F. Stone, Republican, has been named United States chief justice, succeeding Mr. Charles Evans Hughes.

THOMAS H. FREEMAN PASSES

There passed away peacefully at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Senier, at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning, Thomas H. Freeman at the ripe age of 85.

The late Mr. Freeman came to Canada and Blairmore twenty years ago, accompanied by his daughter, now Mrs. Senier. He has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Senier most of the time since. Being of a kindly disposition, he made many friends in the district, who will regret to learn of his passing. He is survived by two daughters and one son in Canada, Mrs. Senier, of Blairmore; Mrs. H. Hannan, of Lethbridge; and Mr. Arthur H. Freeman, of Macleod; also three daughters in England. His wife predeceased him about thirty-five years ago.

Funeral will take place from the Senier home on Stuart Street to St. Luke's Anglican church, where service will be conducted by Rev. J. R. Hagne at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The remains will be laid to rest in the Union cemetery.

A. E. Ferguson, of the Crow's Nest Funeral Home, is in charge of arrangements.

DEMANDS FOR WAR EFFORT ARE NOW INCREASING

Ottawa—Milestones on Canada's march from the old order of peace-time days were seen as officials here noted numerous signs that the task of winning the war will shortly demand more from all Canadians than has been demanded now.

Bearing down now on the Canadian mode of life are a mass of regulations doing such things as "freezing" models of automobiles, radios and other equipment which require machine tools that could be more effectively employed manufacturing war weapons than in meeting changing fashions in design.

Officials said the assumption here was that most of the basic legislation had been approved and that its application could be made increasingly strict as time passed and demands for the war efforts became greater.

The following appeared to be in immediate prospect:

1. Curtailment of the sale of gasoline, with controls against unnecessary consumption of an important force in the conduct of war.

2. Curtailment of the use for civilian purposes of certain metals urgently needed to produce machines of war. Aluminum and steel already are under close control.

3. Increased emphasis on salvage, possibly allied with a move to cut down employment of expensive containers for essential products.

4. A continued effort, accompanied by the necessary regulations, to see that vital food supplies are made available to Britain.

Already measures are in force to see that all surplus supplies of bacon and cheese go to the United Kingdom, and storage eggs may be requisitioned to make up orders from the British food ministry.

Automobile production for military service has increased, but the output for civilian purposes is lower.

Apart from men in the navy, army and air force and in National Resources Mobilization Act training camps, a revolution has been wrought in the lives of thousands of other officials said.

As an instance of the way in which the call for service on the home front is being answered, a labor department official recalled that scores of men urgently wanted for shipbuilding programs being undertaken for Canada and the United States were found in the prairie provinces, far from the cities where they served their apprenticeship in skilled shipbuilding trades.

Indicative of the legislative activity in connection with Canada's war effort was a record available showing that 118 orders-in-council under authority of the War Measures Act were passed from July 4 to Dec. 31, 1940.

Seaplane Damaged

Pick-A-Back Plane Made Is Rendered Unserviceable

London—Mala, bottom half of the Mayo composite seaplane, was aged and rendered unserviceable in a British harbor.

The pick-a-back plane was released to the air ministry at the outbreak of war for duty with the Royal Air Force coastal command, but was rarely used. Before the war it flew the Atlantic to Canada.

Ordered To Leave

Moscow—The Soviet government has ordered the deportation of "the foreign journalist John Scott for publishing slanderous articles about the Soviet Union in the English newspaper News Chronicle," Tass, Soviet news agency, announced. The order was issued by the department of internal affairs.

German Freighter Scuttled

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil—Rear-Admiral Frank Pegram, commander of Britain's South Atlantic squadron, said the 3,200-ton blockade-running German freighter Lech had been scuttled when she was intercepted by a British vessel.

Control Ocean Freight Charges

London—Britain and the United States have concluded an agreement for controlling all freight charges for voyages between their respective territories throughout the world, the Financial Times said.

Will Need More Workers

Washington—The United States labor department estimated that 1,408,000 additional workers would be required in certain key defense industries by April, 1942.

Post War Plans

No New War Millions In Great Britain

London—British Labor, drawing up "blue-prints" for a new post-war Britain, was told that the second Great War will not hatch war millions such as emerged from the conflict of 1914-19.

Addressing the last session of the Labor party's annual three-day conference, Hugh Dalton, economic warfare minister, said:

"There will be no repetition after this war of the great war fortunes which emerged from the last war."

He disclosed that the Labor party executive has established a special committee to work out the plans which Labor hopes to see go into effect when peace returns.

The conference, usually productive of violent discussions during Britain's Whitsuntide, closed on a mild note. With Labor forming a vital part of the government there was little occasion for the critical fireworks of the past, and although some criticism was expected, none materialized.

A memorandum on post-war reconstruction was approved by the delegates who have returned to the government, charged by Prime Minister Churchill to deal with post-war problems, ask them to "trust in my honesty and sincerity to get from this work of mine the maximum in interest for the common people of this land."

Foodstuffs From Japan

Quantities Shipped To Germany Over Trans-Siberian Railway

Tokyo—Foodstuffs from Japan and Japanese-occupied China have been flowing to Germany via the trans-Siberian railway at the rate of 1,500 tons daily in recent months, reliable sources declared.

Approximately 75,000 tons of Manchukuo's soy bean crop—which has been flowing to Germany via the trans-Siberian railway—already has been shipped, they asserted. Other commodities of which large shipments have been made to Germany, it was said, include oil, cotton, meat and rice.

Soviet Russia has not been slow to take advantage of the situation, informed sources said, declaring that rates on freight bound for Berlin via the trans-Siberian had gone up approximately 500 per cent, recently.

In return for the supplies she is obtaining from the Far East, Germany is reported to be exporting products of high value but small volume, such as chemicals, dye-stuffs, scientific apparatus and precision instruments, needed badly in Japan since United States clamped down on shipments.

Exports from occupied China during November, the peak month for 1940, were said to have included 25 tons of tobacco, 700 tons of hides, 400 tons of tea, 400 tons of meat, 250 tons of rice, 200 tons of cotton and 40 tons of leather.

Losses In Crete

More Than 6,000 Australian And New Zealand Troops Missing

Sydney, Australia—More than 6,000 Australian and New Zealand troops were unaccounted for after the withdrawal from Crete, it was estimated.

Percy Spender, Australian army minister, announced that of 6,486 members of the Australian Imperial force in Crete before the German air invasion 2,887 men, including 218 wounded, were removed to Egypt. This left 3,599 men unaccounted for.

Acting Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand announced that 2,800 New Zealand troops who fought in Crete were unaccounted for. He said that among arrivals in Egypt were 786 wounded New Zealanders.

Trouble Was Temporary

New York—Big Ben, London's world-known clock, was silent for 12 hours because a workman left his hammer on the hour-hand bracket. The trouble was discovered just in time for the quarter-hour to strike at 10:15 a.m., the British Broadcasting Corporation said in an announcement heard here.

Fire Was Accidental

Vancouver—In an official statement Provincial Fire Marshal W. A. Walker declared the fire which destroyed the administration offices of the new Boeing Aircraft of Canada Ltd. plant at Sea Island was "of purely accidental nature, arising out of faulty electrical equipment."

Would Rather Fight

United Air Service

Will Take Over Mackenzie River Area And Prince Albert

Edmonton—Co-ordination of the services of the Canadian Airways, Limited, and Mackenzie Air Service, Limited, by United Air Service, Limited, a Canadian Pacific Railway subsidiary, was announced by W. M. Neal of Winnipeg, C.P.R. vice-president in charge of western lines.

W. Leigh Brinnell, president of Mackenzie Air Service, Limited, will be manager of U.A.S.L. and will have direct charge of operations in the Mackenzie river area and the run to Prince Albert, Sask., previously operated separately by C.A.L. and M.A.S.L., the prepared statement said.

WANT A CLOSER UNION BETWEEN BRITAIN AND U.S.

London—Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, told the annual conference of the Labor party he believed the United States and Great Britain would establish closer relations at the end of the war.

"I confidently believe that this growing co-operation between Britain and the United States, which will become closer and closer as the war goes on," he said, "will continue after the war and I think that they will tread the same path with us, realizing that there are no longer two hemispheres, but one single, small world."

Mr. Greenwood, the member of the war cabinet charged with problems of post-war reconstruction, spoke during debate on the Labor party executive's memorandum on peace aims.

"I know there will be a shambles before the war is over," he said. "I realize all the material losses, but our co-operation and that of the dominions with the United States will give us the economic resources soon to obliterate all losses caused by the war."

"In recent weeks I have had to take steps in co-operation with the dominions. They are as anxious as we to maintain the partnership of free peoples to work together far more closely than was ever the case before the war."

The party executive's memorandum, endorsed by a card vote of 2,413,000 to 30,000, stated that complete and national planning now for production, consumption, distribution and finance will make ultimate peace easier and more equitable.

The British Broadcasting Corporation, in its report on the conference, said the peace aims declaration asserts:

"The more complete the national planning now for production, consumption, distribution and finance, the easier and more equitable will be the ultimate transition to peace."

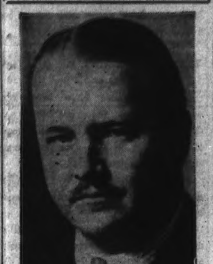

"Mass unemployment is intolerable in wartime and must be made so in time of peace."

"Distressed areas must be removed and finance must be the servant and not the master in peace as in war."

Defence Of Cyprus

Director Of Information

Sir Gerald Campbell To Be In Charge Of British Information Service

London—The government announced the appointment of Sir Gerald Campbell, minister to Washington, as director general of all British information services in the United States.

An announcement from No. 10 Downing street said:

"In response to increasing demand in the United States for fuller and more complete information concerning Great Britain's war effort and for improvement of the supply of news from British sources, it has been decided to entrust direction of existing British information services in the United States to Sir Gerald Campbell, K.C.M.G., now serving as His Majesty's minister at Washington."

"Campbell, whose office will be in New York, will relinquish his appointment as minister in order to assume that of director general of British information services."

Air Raid Damage

Damage To Homes In London Twice As Much As Rest Of England

London—Air raid damage to private homes in London has been twice as much as to dwellings in the rest of England, Health Minister Ernest Brown told a press conference.

He said more than 80 per cent of the damaged houses which had been repaired had been made "indproof and airtight." In London last week 32,000 houses were repaired, and 40,000 in the provinces.

Children From Greenland

Toronto—War guests from Greenland are coming to Canada. It was disclosed at a meeting of the finance committee of the Toronto board of education when Dr. C. C. Goldring, superintendent of schools, said permission had been sought for five children from Greenland to attend Toronto schools next September.

TORCH TO CHURCHILL ON ITS WAY

The symbolic Torch which Canadians are flying to Prime Minister Winston Churchill, The Torch was flown from west to east, and starting at Victoria, impressive dedication ceremonies were held at many cities during its journey from Victoria to Halifax. At left, artist Ted Watson is shown with the completed Torch. The symbol is constructed from materials distinctly Canadian. The base is made of maple and the shaft of Canadian pine, and the whole is finished with 23 carat gold-leaf. At right is shown the inscription on the base: "Canada's Victory Loan 1941—Part of the Torch."

Trouble In Greece

Greek And German Soldiers Clash Over Food Supplies

London—Fighting broke out between Greek and German soldiers at Lavada, about 60 miles northwest of Athens, when inhabitants seized a supply train, Reuters reported from Cairo.

German police fired on the Greeks who were unloading the train despite threats and many persons were killed and wounded, Reuters said it had been reliably informed.

After the incident, the German local commander issued a warning that anyone approaching warehouses or goods trains would be shot. Emergency measures in Athens, the report said, had resulted in court martial and death sentences for hundreds of citizens.

PRODUCTION OF FOOD WILL HELP TO WIN THE WAR

Ottawa—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in the House of Commons that food will help win the war, and Canadian farmers are playing their part in producing it.

During consideration of the agricultural estimates, Mr. Gardiner made a general statement on farm problems, answering questions of members.

British armies will win the war because all British people and all those associated with Britain will be well fed and will have the assurance that food supplies will be available, Mr. Gardiner said.

More staple farm products of all kinds except wheat and apples were being disposed of at present than before the war, Mr. Gardiner said.

Canada now was shipping more pork products to Britain than were being exported to all countries before the war, and there seemed no limit to what might be exported in the future.

Mr. Gardiner said he was not in favor of a long-range reduction in wheat production but it was essential now to get the wheat acreage down.

There had been much criticism at first but western farmers had appreciated the situation and his reports were that acreage this year had been reduced from 27,000,000 acres to 20,000,000.

Every bushel by which production was reduced would save the Dominion $1 for war purposes over a period of three years, the minister said. Wheat owned by the government would cost that much if held for three years, Mr. Gardiner said.

Bacon exports to Britain had increased from 160,000,000 Wilshire sides in the year before the war to 450,000,000 this year.

The minister urged farmers to produce even more next year and declared the United Kingdom would take all the surplus.

Cheese exports to the United Kingdom had increased from 72,000,000 pounds before the war to 105,000,000 pounds last year. This year the agreement called for 112,000,000 pounds. He expected to see it go to 144,000,000 next year.

"We have brought the farmers through the past two years to the frame of mind where they will go on next year to meet our fondest hopes in the production of food," he said.

GIVES WARNING TO FRANCE OVER PACT WITH NAZIS

Washington—The United States strongly warned France of the consequences of becoming an "instrument of aggression" for Germany and indicated that Pan-American occupation of French possessions in the western hemisphere might be near.

In a formal statement, State Secretary Hull said preliminary official reports indicated the French government had adopted a "policy of collaboration with other powers for the purposes of aggression and oppression."

After recounting the history of recent relations between the United States and France, and the instances in which his government had stretched points to assist the other nation, Mr. Hull said:

"It would seem scarcely believable that the French government at Vichy should adopt the policy of collaboration with other powers for the purpose of aggression and oppression—despite indications appearing in our preliminary reports."

Such action would not only be yielding priceless rights and interests beyond the requirements of a harsh armistice, but it would at once place France in substantial political and military subordination and would also make her, in part, the instrument of aggression against many other peoples and nations. This could only be utterly inimical to the just rights of other peoples to say nothing of its ultimate effects on the liberties, the true interests, and the welfare of the people of France.

We are therefore undertaking as speedily as possible to assemble every material fact and circumstances calculated to shed light on this alleged course of the French government.

Russia Floats Loan

Would Be Worth About $150,000,000 In Canadian Money

Moscow—Tass agency reported the flotation of a $150,000,000 ruble, four per cent, state loan "to attract the savings of the population for the execution of economic tasks and cultural development, for the increase of state reserves and the further strengthening of the defensive might of the Soviet Union."

(The dollar equivalent of 9,500,000,000 rubles cannot be stated since the ruble has no value outside Russia. Within Russia the state bank has set 3.5 gold rubles for $1. This would make the $150,000,000 loan be worth about $180,000,000 in Canadian money.)

Quebec Forest Fires

Firefighters Pray For Rain To Help Control The Flames

Chicoutimi, Quebec—Firefighters prayed for rain as the sole hope of controlling the forest fires which raged over nearly 5,000 square miles in this northern Quebec district despite effort of more than 4,000 to battle the flames.

Fueled by wind, the flames ate through ever more valuable timber, their flying embers lighting additional fires to swell the damage already estimated at millions of dollars. Prayers for rain were offered in churches.

No villages were in immediate danger.

HELPING OURSELVES

Here and there throughout the Dominion of Canada, some citizens have allowed themselves to become bewildered by large figures which represent the costs of the war to Canada. Apparently, they scan the headlines, note the billions of dollars which are being spent to fight Hitler, and then sit back and moan something of this kind:

"How in the world will the Government of Canada ever find the money to repay the people who have invested in the War Savings Certificates and War Loan Bonds?"

What some of these people overlook is the fact that the government of the country was not fooling when it declared that Canada would operate on a "pay as you go" policy.

There was one point which the minister of finance brought out in his budget speech on April 29th, 1941, that should be re-emphasized to allay foolish fears. The minister reported that, excluding the assistance which this country is giving Great Britain, Canadians in this fiscal year are providing by their tax payments and other government revenues, 79 per cent of our war and non-war budgetary expenses. In other words, Canada is exercising a very great measure of control over the amount of debt being piled up for future payments.

In the light of conditions all over the world, it is not too extravagant to say that the security behind Canada's War Savings Certificates and War Loan Bonds is just about the best in the world today.

The only real threat against this security is a victory for Hitler.

A REAL JOB FOR THE MAILMAN

Indicative of the thorough manner in which Victory Loan Bonds are being sold in Canada is the report from Ottawa that the publicity committee of the War Loan organization has mailed out 2,600,000 illustrated booklets, entitled "Canada Must Borrow for Victory." This booklet has been delivered to practically every household in the Dominion.

Together with a statement by The Honorable J. L. Hiley, minister of finance, in which he elaborates the reasons for the big loan, some twenty-five or thirty photographs are published to depict the variety of efforts which Canada is putting into the war.

CRUEL LIEB ON PREMIER

It is a cruel calumny to say that Premier Aberhart has done nothing for Canada's war effort. Within the last ten days, William the Promising has sent a letter to every newspaper in Alberta, urging them to support the Victory Loan. Now, isn't that a wonderful effort? Think of the lavish expenditure of paper, envelopes, ink and postage, and the services of a clerk, all of course presumably paid for by the Province. We suppose the Premier must have thought the Alberta Press were waiting for him to give word before they did anything, as his influence with them is so great.

GOSSAMER GOLD

In London today there are master craftsmen making gold leaf one one 280,000th of an inch in thickness.

Using an eight-pound hammer, on a marble bench, they beat out leaf as frail as gossamer, and it is their boast that theirs is the oldest craft in the British Empire; for they can point to gold leaf on a mummy case in the British Museum dating back to 2,600 B.C.

Seven years ago, the world's biggest makers of gold leaf began research work at their London headquarters to produce leaf which would be more evenly. Today the new material is keeping its British makers busy. They are now sending it out to many quarters of the globe.

The ancient methods are still employed for the gold leaf used by sign and interior decorators in their gilding of wood work and for furniture. So, under one factory roof in London today, modern craftsmen are using, side by side, methods little changed in thousands of years with others but a few years old.

THEY JUST CAN'T BE BEATEN

Many instances have been sent over to this side about the humor and determination of the British people as it appears on the signs put out by their shopkeepers.

Here's one sent back by Lieut. Gordon Graham, taken from a London butcher shop:

"We regret we are sold out of meat, but we are pleased to announce all customers were supplied with the full ration as allowed by the Ministry of Food for the week ending 22-2-41."

"YOU want meat."

"WE want meat."

"But thank God we are still alive to want it."

You can't beat a people like that. Not, anyway, if they get the help from this side of the water they deserve.

DOWN THROUGH THE AGES

Brave men fought and suffered and died in order that their children and their children's children might be free. Today the forces of darkness threaten to engulf us once more. Shall we give up those rights which our forefathers won?

Today our country must arm. No time can be lost. We must build the greatest war machine the world has ever known. We must accomplish in two years more than the enemy has accomplished in seven.

That is why Canada needs your savings—not as a gift, but only as a loan. Canada's army must be maintained and equipped with the most modern fighting machines. Scores of warships and merchant vessels must be built. Thousands of planes, thousands of pilots must be rushed to the scene of conflict.

So Canada needs the use of your money now. Later on, Canada will repay you in full. In the meantime, you will receive regular interest on your loan.

When you buy Victory Bonds, all Canada is your security. These Bonds are more readily turned into cash than any other.

HOW TO BUY—Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Canvasser, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

WHY IS BRITAIN HEALTHIER NOW THAN IN PEACE TIME?

The United States are sending to Britain a committee of American medical men to try and find out why the people have come through the winter's "blitz" with better health than in the years of peace.

Medical men generally are completely baffled by the nation's fitness. They feared that, after nights of crowding in air-raid shelters and exposure to all weathers on A.R.P. and fire-watching, epidemics would sweep the country like a prairie fire.

In fact, there have been fewer cases of scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever and pneumonia, and only half the number of deaths from influenza. Whooping cough and meningitis have alone been rather more prevalent than usual.

Britain's own doctors offer various explanations of the mystery, among them the dispersal of densely populated areas, the improved system of health supervision, the spread of education in preventive measures, fewer people at "the pictures" and in other public places.

All, however, are agreed that the busy, hazardous life led by 45,000,000 people leaves them neither the time nor the inclination to brood over minor ailments. The war has taken them "out of themselves."

Noted London Landmarks

List of Those Damaged by Nazi Air Raids Grows

British authorities permitted the announcement that several noted London landmarks, including the Temple, Gray's Inn, Sergeant's Inn and St. Nicholas Cole Abbey had been damaged in recent German air raids.

The Temple, heart of legal London, and Temple church, largest of the remaining round churches in England, suffered heavy damage.

The tomb of Oliver Goldsmith, in the churchyard, was battered by falling masonry but his statue had only a chip knocked from the tip of the nose.

Flames spreading through the church, whose round section was consecrated in 1185, burned for six or seven hours, melting the leaden roof and destroying stained glass windows.

The ancient masters' house of the Temple, damaged in a previous raid, was hit again, demolishing a reading room of the library and Inner Temple hall.

Flames spread from Inner Temple hall to the cloisters, Free Tree court and Crown Office, which contained the Charles Lamb memorial.

Six or eight statues of crusaders—the Temple originally was the seat in England of the crusading order of Knights Templar—were made unrecognizable by tons of falling masonry.

It was said authoritatively that half the Temple was destroyed.

Gray's Inn, fourth and last of the great inns of court, to which many famed Elizabethans belonged, also was heavily damaged. The 16th century hall was destroyed and the library, with most of its 20,000 volumes, was burned out.

A relic of the first Great War—the remains of a German incendiary bomb which fell in the neighborhood—was lost, but a catapala tree planted by Sir Walter Raleigh, was undamaged.

International Peace Garden

Beautiful Spot On North Dakota-Montana Boundary Worth Visiting

Sixteen miles south of Bismarck, Manitoba, on the North Dakota-Montana boundary, is the International Peace garden, fast becoming one of the most beautiful spots in the west. The roads leading to the garden, in which is located Turtle Mountain Forest reserve, from both North Dakota and Manitoba are excellent. The garden is still in the process of development, but visitors in recent years have found it a very pleasant place. Development on the American side is further advanced than on the Canadian side, since the United States government has made use of C.C.C. camps on a large scale and has appropriated a large amount of money for this work.

The farmer ceased, pursed his lips and ever after kept his peace. When her vacation was over, she sent for the farmer and asked for her bill. Running her eyes down the column, she paused. "What is this item, sir?" she asked. "I cannot understand it!" And with equal gravity, he replied: "SASS, $5. I don't often take it, but when I do, I charge."

Explanations and Comments

Paul's sermon at Antioch in Pisidia, Acts 13:14-41. On the Sabbath Paul and Barnabas attended the synagogue services. After the reading of the Law and the Prophets the rulers of the synagogue asked them to speak.

The result of the sermon, Acts 13:42-44. As Paul and Barnabas left the synagogue they were urged to speak again on the following Sabbath. (Gentile converts to Judaism) followed them to their place of abode and Paul urged them to continue in the grace of the Lord.

The Jealousy and Antagonism of the Jews Aroused and Paul Turned to the Gentiles, Acts 13:44-48. As a result of the wide-spread discussion of Paul's sermon and of the work of Paul and Barnabas during the week that followed, almost the whole city was gathered together to hear the word of God on the next Sabbath. When the multitude saw that they were filled with jealousy, their antagonism was due primarily, not to opposition to Paul's work, but to envy of his success as a preacher. It was not loyalty to sacred truth that led them to contradict Paul and to blaspheme.

Finding that the Jews would not listen to Paul and Barnabas, he spoke out boldly and said to them: "It was necessary that the word of God should first be spoken to you. Seeing ye thrust it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, lo, we turn to the gentiles." Notice the well-balanced balance between God's sovereign purpose and man's free determination of his own life. It was necessary, but ye thrust it from you and judge yourself unworthy.

Persecutions, Acts 13:50-52. The hostile Jews now had recourse to the devout women of honorable estate, and the chief men of the city—the Roman colonists, the local aristocracy, as Professor Ramsay calls them—who were the high privileged class and held the reins of government. These joined forces with the Jews in persecuting Paul and Barnabas till they were driven from the city. Paul and Barnabas shook off the dust of their feet against them. The two missionaries went on to Iconium.

One Of Greatest Needs

Alles, Cannot Crush Hitler Until Air Superiority Is Gained

The fighting in the Eastern Mediterranean will go on, and it will be pressed with the utmost vigor on land and at sea. There is no reason to believe that the Germans will have any easy task in an attack on Russia.

The important point to remember, however, is that even if they score a victory in the Middle East, that will not end the war. Nothing will end the war until superiority in the air is gained. The Allies must crush the present threat to the freedom of the world. The lesson that the Battle of Crete teaches, is that the only way by which the Nazi terror can finally be eliminated from the world is through the establishment of overwhelming superiority in the air. That is a lesson for the British Empire, and undoubtedly also a lesson for the American people.

Managed Crystal Palace

Sir Henry Buckland Hoped It Would Be Restored

Everybody who knows him, is sorry for Sir Henry Buckland, manager of London's Crystal Palace, who witnessed the destruction of the north tower of the palace the other day. Appointed in 1914, he was hoping to restore the former reputation of the palace as a pleasure for the people, but the war came and "H.M. Crystal Palace" was occupied by sailors. Sir Henry, originally a draper's manager, is a brother-in-law of that famous laryngologist to the King and Queen, Sir Milson Rees, and lives in the house that was built for Paxton in the palace grounds.

Looking Ahead

An actor entered a tailor's shop and gave an order for a suit. He took home a small pattern of the material and showed it to his son.

"Not bad," Tommy replied.

"Why, you're looking at the wrong side," said the actor.

"I know I am," the boy replied, "but that's side I shall have to wear when the suit comes down to me."

Motor Salesman: "Can I show you some thing—air."

Pedestrian: "No, I'm not here to buy anything. But it's such a wonderful change to be in the midst of all these cars without having to dodge them."

In connection with its campaign for increased health and efficiency as a part of the Dominion's war effort, the Health League of Canada points to what has been effected in Britain by the added insistence on public health measures. Official figures from London, says the League, show that the general health of the people is higher to-day than it has been for several years, despite the appalling conditions under which they are forced to live. There has been fear that damage to drains, as a result of bombing, might produce epidemics of typhoid in the large British cities. Actually, there was less typhoid in Britain during the early months of 1941 than in corresponding periods in 1939 and 1938, though the incidence remained about the same as in 1940.

The crowding of air raid shelters has not resulted in epidemics of sickness, in the contrary, communicable disease has decreased. In part, this result is attributed to the provision of medical service in the shelters, and to the avoidance of delay in the treatment of illness. The Health League believes that greater attention to public health in Canada should be paid at this time, and that thousands of working hours now lost yearly could be saved by the elimination of preventable diseases.

"The milk is intended for your children and has been sent without the knowledge of the purchasers of these tools or any agent connected with same."

Not Really Superstitious

But Queen Elizabeth Evidently Believes In Touching Wood

Queen Elizabeth believes in "touching wood."

During a visit to the King George and Queen Elizabeth Club for Service Women of the Empire, her majesty asked a young Irish cook if the basement kitchen if the gas supply had been cut off as a result of air raids.

"Oh no," the Irish lass replied. "We haven't been without gas, yet." The Queen promptly touched the table and said "we had better touch wood then, just to be on the safe side."

Dakar As Springboard

Value Of French Possession Is Fully Realized By Germans

The Buffalo Courier-Express says: Talk of American expeditionary forces to Dakar at this time comes under the head of fantastic speculation. But talk of French "collaboration" with Germany to hold Dakar is neither fantastic nor speculative. Dakar interests Germany far more than it interests Dakar's nominal owner, France. France never harbored any notions of using Dakar, only 1,500 miles from Brazil, as a "base of operations" for conquests in the New World. Germany has harbored, and does harbor, such notions.

CHAPTER X.

"Sit down, please," Vana said coldly, indicating a little straight-backed chair.

Devona, obeyed, feeling as if she were a prisoner before her. Though why—what it could be that—Dully her mind went around and around searching for a key to this strange tight-lipped mood of Vana's. Tapping a cigarette rhythmically against her thumb nail, Vana moved slowly to her chaise-longue and sat down, head flung back against the pillows as she lit the match and blew the first shafts of pale blue smoke carefully. Again, Devona had that feeling of waiting for a cue. Every act, every gesture measured, timed as it for an entrance.

Finally, Vana turned toward her with a gracefulness, a cool poise that made Devona feel awkward, too tall, too young—too everything that was gauche and out of place.

"I would much prefer," Vana began slowly, anger gone from her voice now, and replaced with infinite coldness, "that you didn't go swimming by moonlight at this hour—either alone or in the company of my guests."

Flushing, Devona bit her lip. "I'm sorry. It was such a perfect night and Dali—"

"Is a very charming young man, I'm aware of that," Vana lifted one eyebrow. "But, I'm afraid unconventional behavior will lay you open we'll be opening our play in Hollywood for the trial run and then we'll take it on to New York. You see, it would be quite impossible for me to keep you with me indefinitely."

Puzzled, Devona tried to collect her wits. "I—really—hadn't thought much—" she stammered, helplessly. "Then, I believe we'd better do some thinking at once," Vana went on, dryly. "There's an excellent girl's school just out of San Francisco. Specializes in music, I believe. I'll write for details tomorrow and I think we can get you off before the end of the week. You might as well get started at once."

Devona gasped in spite of herself. "Tomorrow—the end of the week!" "Yes, you've wasted enough time already. Your father—" her eyes changed subtly, "never was one to realize that life has to have definite plans—purpose—if you are to achieve anything."

"Yes—of course." "And now, good night," Vana rose, closed the little interview with a cool nod. She brushed a kiss against Devona's cheek, a frosted little gesture that served only to remind the daughter what boundless charm lay between herself and her mother.

"Good night," Devona echoed, automatically, her voice fading to a whisper. "And remember," Vana stopped her just as she was closing the door behind her. "Please don't make a nuisance of yourself to Dale—or any of my guests."

Tear-choked, Devona shook her head, closed the door and escaped to her room across the hall.

For hours she lay huddled in the wide bed, staring into the darkness, her heart heavy with this new burden. She was unwelcome in her mother's house! That much was plain enough and, as she thought back over the reasons Vana had given, unwelcome because of something more than that she was in the way.

Dawn had slid fingers of light through the long, open windows before Devona dropped into restless, dream-tormented sleep. And when a fitful breeze loosened a window catch and flung it shut with a crash, she awoke with a start, a frightened scream on her lips.

Vana stood in the door watching Devona in Dale's arms. Devona realized her mother would put a wrong interpretation upon her actions.

"No. We'll hope not," Vana said coldly, and slipping out of bed, ran barefooted across the thick-piled carpet to refasten it.

As she stood, hidden by the heavy draperies, one slim arm reaching for the opened window catch, she saw someone cross the patio balcony. A stealthy some one who skirted the flagstoned paths, walked noiselessly on the green velvet lawn.

Wong, again! But now strangely different. His jaunty white panama replaced by a woollen cap. His flashy sport coat exchanged for dingy blue shirt and a torn sweater. Under his arm he carried a bundle wrapped in newspaper!

Through the murky half-light of early morning, Devona saw him hesitate under the palms lining the drive, dash quick glances toward the house, toward the very window where she stood now, frozen immobile. Then, as if he'd made sure no one saw him, he moved across the lawn below her window to a side door. An instant later that door closed soundlessly.

Heart hammering, Devona, pulled a negligee over her nightgown, thrust her bare feet into soft-soled mules, opened her own door noiselessly and ran swiftly to the head of the servants' stairway. At the landing one flight below she saw Wong hesitate, squat quickly to pull off heavy, mud-spattered shoes, then steal silently down the hall to the servants' closet.

Devona stood there a moment trying to think what to do. Tell Vana? But, after all, what was there to tell? A servant chooses to—

Behind her a door opened suddenly. Startled, Devona whirled, a scream rising to her lips. It was Dale—thrusting his arm into a dressing gown, his hair still awry, his eyes still sleep-lidded.

"What's up?"

"Look here," she gasped down a little laugh. "How you frightened me."

Dale came toward her with long strides. "But what are you doing trailing around the hall at this hour?"

"I just thought I heard something—a burglar and—it turned out to be Wong coming in. I—I guess I'm just—nervous."

"I'm sorry," she sobbed. "I'm just—upset."

"Look here. One finger under her chin, he tipped her face up toward his. "Smile. A big one."

Devona managed a sort of lop-sided little rainbow one.

"That's better," he grinned. "And tomorrow we'll go for a long ride into the open spaces and clear up those jittery with a little desert sunshine. How about it?"

She nodded, still not trusting her voice.

"Good. Run along now" and with that he stooped, kissed her swiftly on the lips—a fleeting gesture that caught her heart, sent it racing again. But not before another door opened. Vana's this time.

Turning, Devona realized her mother must have seen that sweet little caress. Guiltily she drew free of Dale's encircling arm, faced her, aware of the angry accusation in Vana's eyes, aware too of the touch of Dale's mouth against hers. She felt her own cheeks scorch with embarrassment as she tried to draw the wily negligee closer. It must look—unconventional, as Vana would put it. And it had been so innocent.

But, Devona realized miserably her mother wouldn't be convinced of that, probably. Not after having once warned her already to-night to stop "being a nuisance" to her guests.

"Well, Vana broke the silence finally, her silken voice drawing the word carelessly. "Am I—interrupting something?"

Devona opened her lips to explain but no sound came. In the same instant she heard Dale saying, quietly: "Devona thought she heard some one breaking into the house and came to investigate. I heard, either that or Devona herself. But it proved to be only one of the servants. Dale said, 'go' he sniled down at her again, had a little attack of the jitters. But she'll all right now, are you?"

Devona nodded, grateful for the bulwark of his calmness but perfectly sure that Vana didn't believe a word of what he'd said.

"I see." Her lovely lips curled a little and the warning was plain in those hard gray eyes as she looked at Devona. "Well, run back to bed, Devona. It's still a hideously uncivilized hour."

"Yes, of course," Devona murmured, and I'm sorry to have disturbed every one. But, I did see—"

"Never mind," Vana interrupted curtly. "You'll rouse the whole house. And I think we've had enough—for one night."

The thrust went home with sharp-edged cruelty. Unwelcome here! If she'd needed further proof, Vana's twisting smile gave it to her then. Dully, Devona nodded, started down the hall to her own room.

Red Cross Relief

Materials Salvaged When Czech Hospital in London Destroyed

A cable to the Canadian Red Cross headquarters from the overseas office recently revealed that huge quantities of Canadian supplies, given the Czech Red Cross for relief work, were rescued when the Czech war-hospital was demolished in the disastrous weekend bombing of London not long ago.

The cable read: "Czech Red Cross in London destroyed but all Canadian Red Cross material sent there salvaged. They worked all Saturday night saving clothing and supplies, and total losses, almost nil."

The despatch from overseas also revealed that Canadian Red Cross goods had just been sent to Northern Ireland for the relief of bombed victims in that island in Belfast and other centres. The relief supplies are being distributed to the Irish by the Women's Voluntary Services.

Canadian survivors who landed in England from a "recently lost British-bound ship" were provided with new personal property outfits including pyjamas, sweaters, socks, razors and other comforts, the cable said.

Supplies to Czech and other refugee groups in England given by the Canadian Red Cross since the first of the year totalled 378,055 articles of comforts and hospital supplies and 225,666 articles of relief clothing.

Not New To Canada

Heavy Equipment Has Often Been Moved By Air

The Germans landed tanks on Crete by air. Tanks range in size from 15 tons to 80 tons. If, therefore, the Germans transported lighter tanks, the achievement may not be as extraordinary as it seems.

It should not seem too extraordinary to Canadians, because for years before this war Canadians, with much smaller "planes than the Germans now possess, were flying all sorts of heavy mining equipment into the north country, flying over out of the north country.

North of Edmonton, Canadian "planes carried on a regular transportation service with the northland; carried daily, under the most difficult flying conditions, all kinds of heavy traffic. Their journeys were much longer, and much more hazardous, from the standpoint of sheer flying, than the 80-mile hop between Greece and Crete.—Ottawa Journal.

LEARN KNACK OF WRITING FRIEND-WINNING LETTERS

Put Warmth Into Your Notes

Getting a letter from some girls is an event! Every page brims with personality, friendly warmth. No wonder such a girl is first to be asked for visits, home parties, etc.

Yet writing good letters isn't an inborn talent. It's a knack that everybody can learn. If you get bogged down at the start of a letter try this simple trick.

Think what you'd say if you suddenly met the other person—then write it. "Dear Mary: What ages since we've had a good chat! And here we are giving a dull catalogue: 'Sue had a shower... went for a swim... I bought a new hat.'"

Even in notes to old friends correct form counts. To sign yourself "Sincerely, Ann" is neither grammatical nor courteous. Always remember to add the "you" to words like "sincerely," "fondly."

Make a delightful impression in social and business letters, too, with the help of the pointers in our 32-page booklet. Gives sample letters for many occasions, tips on vocabulary, English and correct form.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Good Letter-Writing Made Easy" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 176 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.
